

Public lecture on “Universities in the Face of Climate Change and Sustainability”

Professor Walter Leal at the Hamburg University of Applied Sciences, an academic advisor of GC-ESG, will deliver a public lecture on “Universities in the face of climate change and sustainability” on Tuesday 1st February 2022, 17:00 Central European Time (16:00 UTC).

The lecture will outline general trends on sustainability in higher education, focusing on some of the most important areas to consider. The presentation will also cover some of the sustainability rankings used, and discuss the links between sustainability and climate change in a higher education context.

Further details and information on how to register, please visit:

<https://www.haw-hamburg.de/en/university/newsroom/news-details/news/news/show/universities-in-the-face-of-climate-change-and-sustainability/>

HKMA Global Centre for ESG Education & Research